Official Dispatch from Gen. Bragg.

RICHMOND, Nov. 25.—The following was received here this morning:

MISSION RIDGE, Nov. 24.—To Gen. S. Cooper:—We have had a prolonged struggle for Lookout Mountain to-day and sustained considerable loss in one Division. Elsewhere the enemy has only manœuvred for position.

(Signed) BRAXTON BRAGG.

The Latest from Bragg's Army—Terrific Fighting—Our Troops Hold their Position, &c.

ATLANTA Nov. 25.—The enemy yesterday made a desperate attempt to take Lookout mountain. At twelve o'clock when our informant left the battle still raged.—His advance on Monday gained possession of two small hills in our front, and yesterday morning he opened all his batteries and there was heavy skirmishing along the entire line. At noon an infantry assault was made on Lookout and a vigorous attempt kept up by the Yankees for an hour without result, when they fell back, our troops holding their own. Our informant states when he was leaving the fire of the enemy on Lookout had opened again heavily.

The temper of our troops is described as full of grit and spirit. We have intelligence that the enemy were repulsed on our right by Patton, Anderson's and Hindman's divisions with heavy loss. Our loss twenty.

From Charleston.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 24.—The enemy has kept up a constant mortar shelling on Sumter to-day, occasionally opening upon Moultrie, Simpkins and Johnson, with both rifled guns and mortars. Yankee negroes were working briskly on Gregg to-day, and it is reported they have unmasked four more guns, among them a 300 pounder Parrot. The Yankee middle battery was turned upon Moultrie this morning and two or three additional mortars upon Simpkins. During Monday night 170 shells were fired at Sumter, 62 of which missed.

Capt. Harleston died at half past 10 this morning.

The Ironsides and monitors have been inactive to-day. No shelling of the city to-day.

[SECOND DISPATCH.]

CHARLESTON, Nov. 25.—The number of shots and shells fired on Tuesday and last night was 283, of which 159 missed.

The casualties last night were Capt. Mitchell, 23d, slightly wounded, one negro killed and another severely wounded in the shoulder.

No firing on the city last night.

From Gen. Lee's Army—Meade's Army in Motion.

ORANGE C. H., Nov. 25.—Ten prisoners, captured by Mosby, near Bealton, in Fauquier, Saturday, arrived today. Mosby at the same time captured twenty mules, also three wagons heavily loaded and brought off the contents.

The enemy are advancing their pickets in front and towards Madison C. H. Some movement on hand with the Yankee army.

More Rumors from Knoxville.

BRISTOL, Nov. 25.—Col. Wither made a dash on a band of guerrillas in Johnston county and captured eighteen, who were furloughed.

Unofficial advices from the front state that Burnside had surrendered, with seven thousand prisoners, to Longstreet.

From Richmond.

RICHMOND, Nov. 25.—A French steamer came up James River yesterday as far as Hog Island, a few miles below Jamestown, and anchored off that place. The object of the visit is not ascertained.

Members of Congress are beginning to arrive. Hon. H. S. Foote, of Tennessee, is here.

The Fight at Lookout Mountain

RICHMOND, Nov. 25.—A special dispatch from Mission Ridge, dated 24th, says the enemy assaulted Lookout Mountain from the west side, with great force. The fight was still raging when the telegram was written. The enemy is throwing a force across the Tennessee at the mouth of Chickamauga, and pressing around to our right.

CONFEDERATE STATES SURGICAL JOURNAL.—A Medical and Surgical Journal, to be published under the auspices of the Surgeon General, is to be issued in Richmond on the 1st of January, 1864, for the support of which the co-operation of the army and navy medical staff and of the profession at large is respectfully solicited. The Journal will be published weekly in octavo form, and issued regularly to subscribers who have paid in advance, at ten dollars a year.

Judge Gilliam will hold a Court of Oyer and Terminer in the county of Randolph, on Monday the 7th of December.

THE ATTACK ON KNOXVILLE—YANKEE ACCOUNT.

We give the following telegrams in full from Northern papers of the 21st, as they are fuller than what we have already published of the movement of Longstreet on Knoxville:

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Nov. 17, 1863.—Gen. Longstreet, after crossing the Tennessee on Saturday morning, 14th instant, was attacked in the afternoon by Gen. Burnside, who drove the advance guard back to within a mile of the river's edge by nightfall.

Longstreet crossed the remainder of his troops during the night, and on Sunday morning advanced in force.

Gen. Burnside, finding it impossible to cope with him with the small force at his disposal, fell back to Lenoir, the rear guard skirmishing heavily with the enemy through the day.

Three desperate charges were made upon our positions during Sunday night, but were handsomely repulsed.

On Monday morning General Burnside evacuated Lenoir, but owing to the energy with which the rebel pursuit was kept up, determined to give them a decided check, and accordingly came into line of battle at Campbell's Station, when a fight ensued, lasting from late in the afternoon until dark. Our first position commanding the road from both sides, the infantry deployed in front of this, and were soon attacked by the enemy, who made several gallant charges, and finally succeeded, by outflanking our men, in driving them to the cover of the batteries, which now opened a terrific and destructive fire. The rebels retired before it gave way, and eventually fell back to the river.

It was now three o'clock in the afternoon. The rebels showing a desire to renew the attack, and having brought three batteries to their assistance, General Burnside fell back to a more desirable position and again gave them battle. The contest continued, closing at nightfall, with our troops in possession of their own ground.

The object of the fight having been attained, and as the detention of the rebels had enabled our trains to get all in advance, our troops fell back during the night, and early Tuesday morning reached Knoxville, where a great battle is expected to be fought to-morrow.

Yesterday the rebel advance guard attacked our outposts upon the London and Clinton roads, and heavy skirmishing continued all day.

This morning the attack was resumed, when the fog which had set in during the night had cleared. The rebels finding it impossible to drive our men with infantry, brought several guns into position and poured in a flanking fire.

In the afternoon they brought forward a heavy force of infantry once more, and, after a brief skirmish, charged our position. A terrible hand-to-hand conflict occurred, both sabres and revolvers being used on both sides. Our men fought with the greatest gallantry; but at last were compelled to fall back about a third of a mile to a strong line, which they hold to-night.

We have to regret the wounding of Gen. Sanders and Capt. Sikes, of the cavalry, who commanded the outpost. The General's condition is critical. Lieut-Col. Smith, of the Twentieth Michigan, was killed at Campbell's Station. Our loss in that fight was between two and three hundred. Our loss to-day will not exceed one hundred and fifty.

The enemy's loss on Monday, owing to the severe fire of our artillery, could not have been less than a thousand. Their loss to-day is estimated at four or five hundred.

Gen. Shackelford had a brisk fight on Sunday with the rebels on the other side of the Holston, three miles from here. He kept them in check, and at night they disappeared.

Our men are in the best of spirits, and perfectly confident of success to-morrow.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Nov. 19.—The enemy began skirmishing from their position on the Kingston road at ten o'clock this morning. Our advance along, composed wholly of mounted infantry and cavalry, commanded the position, under command of Gen. Sanders, and each man fought like a veteran.

At noon the enemy opened with artillery at short range, their battery being protected by a large house. Benjamin's battery was the only one which replied, occupying the chief fortification half a mile in front of and to the right of the town. A desperate charge was made by the enemy about three P. M. Our men were protected by rail barricades on the crest of the hill. General Sanders was severely wounded, and was borne from the field.

We yielded the position, and fell back about a third of a mile to a stronger one. We have lost about one hundred, one-quarter of whom were killed.

The enemy had completely invested the place, but Gen. Burnside will defend it to the last man, and, it is believed, successfully. The troops are in the best spirits. Every important point is fortified, and confidence prevails that we shall whip the enemy out.

LOUISVILLE, Friday, Nov. 20.—A private dispatch, received by a gentleman in this city yesterday morning, dated Knoxville, Nov. 19, and signed A. E. Burnside, Major-General, says:

"We are all right. Yet the line is still interrupted between Knoxville and Cumberland Gap. Nothing was heard from the latter place last night or up to 11 o'clock to-day."

Headquarters here are not advised of any movement about Knoxville for several days past.

A dispatch just received from Parson Brownlow, dated Barbour Hill, Nov. 19, says: "There is fighting all about Knoxville."

The following telegram was received too late for use for our Western mail on Tuesday night:

Later from Tennessee—The Enemy Advancing at Chattanooga—Severe Fighting—No Particulars—Burnside Fortifying at Knoxville—Brownlow Fled, &c.

ATLANTA, Nov. 24.—Yesterday afternoon the enemy advanced in force from Chattanooga down on our pickets and made a demonstration of battle. He was met with spirit by our lines and at dark both armies faced each other in line of battle. Rumors from the front to-day tell of severe fighting but no particulars have been received.

The Yankees at Knoxville have fortified Armstrong's Hill, West of the city, on the summit of the hill and on the hills on the East of the city. They have also heavy guns on the heights south of the Holston river. Brownlow fled after publishing one number and a half of his scurrilous paper.

$100 REWARD.

I WILL PAY THE ABOVE REWARD TO ANY one for the delivery to me, in Raleigh, of my fine Hunting Case Gold Watch. Said Watch was stolen from my pocket on the train coming down this side of Salisbury, on Thursday night, by a villain who was spotted at the time and arrested very soon after, but too late, as he had disposed of the Watch in some way, so that it could not be found. Said Watch is marked "J. T. J."—the letters, however, resemble G. T. G. very much.

THOMAS JENKINS,

Salisbury Watchman copy 2 times and forward bill.

$500 REWARD.

I WILL GIVE FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS REward for the apprehension and confinement in any jail within the State, of WILLIAM FINN, a notorious horse rogue. Said Finn deserted from Company E, 59th Regiment North Carolina Cavalry about eight months ago, is about thirty years old, about five feet eight or nine inches high, light hair, fair complexion, skin of the face approaching redness, blue eyes, with sharp, keen look, nose somewhat roman, sulky outer look, slow to speak, but when he does speak he speaks short. On some occasions he has passed himself by the name of Johnston.

I have reason to believe the said Finn stole from me on the night of the 7th, (this month,) my fine bay MARE, saddle and bridle. The mare was two years old last Spring, sixteen or seventeen hands high, red bay with black mane and tail, several skinned marks in her forehead; the saddle was of Spanish form, with loose hog skin seat, wool padded on the tree; the seat was stitched. I will give a liberal reward for the delivery of my mare, or for any information that will lead to her recovery.

My residence is on Dutch Buffalow Creek, about ten miles South-east from Concord, Cabarrus county. My address, Mt. Pleasant, Cabarrus county, N. C.

$100 REWARD.

I WILL GIVE $100 FOR THE APPREHENSION OF my boy LAWSON, who left my house on the 13th of this month. Said boy is about 5 feet 8 inches high, dark complexion, and had on when leaving a black velvet cap, black pants, dark frock coat and an over sack. He was with me while stationed in Goldsboro last winter and was pretty well known there. He may attempt to reach the enemy's lines beyond that point.

Chattanooga.

The news from Gen. Bragg's army is meagre and unsatisfactory. We hope for the best but we have our misgivings. Our men are brave and our Generals sagacious, but we have an impression that the enemy have fallen or will fall upon Bragg with a crushing force. Gen. Bragg's army is not strong enough by thirty thousand men, and unless speedily strengthened we may look for disaster in that quarter.

The War in Virginia.

The Richmond papers of Tuesday are barren of news. No change reported in the situation on the Rapidan and Rappahannock.

The Whig learns by a private letter from the Valley that Major Robert White, of Imboden's command, had a fight a few days since, with about seven hundred Yankee cavalry, with two pieces of artillery, and killed seven, wounded eighteen and captured eleven. He had about two hundred men, with two pieces of artillery, and lost one officer and eight privates captured, and one man slightly wounded.

The same correspondent furnishes a correct version of Captain McNeill's gallant dash on a wagon train of the enemy in Hardy county. Accompanied by Lients. Moorman, with about one hundred men, he attacked a train of eighty wagons, guarded by about one hundred men. They rounted the guard and took the wagons, but being closely pursued by a force of the enemy, estimated at six hundred, were compelled to abandon the train and set fire to it, but not damaging it much. The Captain, however, brought off two hundred and twenty-five horses with harness.

We learn from the Petersburg Express that the Yankees have fallen back from the vicinity of Suffolk and none have been seen there for several days. Col. Taliaferro's raid accomplished much good.

The storehouse and warehouse of Melton D. Butler at Berlin, Southampton county, was burned on Thursday night. Loss about $10,000. It was doubtless the work of an incendiary, supposed to be deserters whom Mr. Butler had been aiding to catch.

28th Regiment N. C. Troops.

We give to-day a most interesting historical sketch of the 28th. This regiment has been complimented on various hard fought fields by general officers. It has a noble though sad record. It fought through the battles of Hanover, Mechanicsville, Gaines' Mills, Frazier's Farm, Malvern Hill, Cedar Mountain, Manassas Junction, Manassas Plains, Ox Hill, Harper's Ferry, Sharpsburg, Shepardstown, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg.

The full details connected with the history of this and other North Carolina regiments may be found in Capt. Foote's office, where the Roll of Honor is being prepared.

The Assembly.

In the Senate on yesterday the subjects embraced in the Governer's message were referred to appropriate Committees. Nothing further was done except the introduction of several bills which we will notice when they come up for final action.

The business transacted in the House was unimportant, in fact all of it is in its inititory state as yet, the Committees not having had time to report. See proceedings.

A LETER FROM HAL.—Our highly esteemed personal friend and army correspondent "Hal," has favored us with another very interesting letter from Virginia, which will be found in another column. To it we direct special attention.

By the way, we notice that an army correspondent of the Raleigh Progress uses the precise enitials of our friend, and we take occasion to advertise our readers that our Correspondent is not responsible for the sentiments expressed through the columns of our Raleigh cotemporary. Bear that in mind.—Charlotte Bulletin.

Our Charlotte neighbor need not be alarmed. We are not desirous that he or his correspondents "or any other man" should assume the responsibility that belongs to us. We are willing that every tub should stand on its own bottom, now and hereafter. We are proud of our record. "Hal," of the Progress, did not consult us as to what signature he should write over, nor do we consider it a matter of any importance. We suppose he is hardly the same "Hal" that contributes to the columns of the Bulletin, though the letters of both are very readable; and as they are both in the army we suppose our "cotemporary" of the Bulletin will hardly raise the question of "loyalty."

RELIGIOUS.—The Rev. Bishop George F. Pierce, of Georgia, will preach, Providence permitting, in the Methodist Church of this city, on next Sabbath morning, at eleven o'clock. GEN. D. H. HILL.

It affords us pleasure in being able to place before our readers the annexed letter from the War Department to Gen. D. H. Hill, who demanded an inquiry into the cause of his relief from command in the army of Tennessee. Further reference is unnecessary. The letter from Adjutant General Cooper is sufficiently explanatory, and removes every imputation that may have been indulged in by the public or the press:

ADJ'T AND INSP'T GEN'S OFFICE,
Richmond, Nov. 20, 1863.

Lieut. Gen. D. H. Hill:

General:—Your letter, of the 13th inst., requesting that a Court of Inquiry may be ordered to investigate your conduct while connected with the army in Tennessee, has been submitted to the Secretary of War. In reply I am instructed to say that after careful consideration of the subject, there does not appear any adequate cause to justify an order for such Court. No charges have been preferred by your Commanding General or others against you, and no complaint, even of your military conduct, has been addressed to the Department. You have been simply relieved from duty at the request of the Commanding General. Your own military experience will readily satisfy you, that the relief of an officer from his command constitutes no ground for a Court of Inquiry, and to allow it to be such could not fail to be prejudicial to the service. Other considerations than those of military delinquency, such as contrariety of views, want of harmony, or the like, may have well induced such application. Indeed, with an officer of your past service and approved gallantry, military delinquency is a presumption not to be indulged by any one, and certainly not in the absence of all charge or complaint sanctioned by the Department. No injustice, therefore, is done you, as certainly no reflection on your well earned military reputation is intended by the Department, in declining, from general considerations for the interest of the service, to grant a Court of Inquiry on your application.

Very respectfully, your ob't serv't,
S. COOPER,
Adj't and Insp. Gen.

We are glad to learn that the State Clothing Department has advanced the prices paid the worthy sewing women who make up the clothing for our soldiers. We learn that the prices now paid are as follows: Coats $1 50, pants $1 25, shirts 75 and drawers 50 cents. We have often urged this advance, and only regret that it was not made sooner.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE 28th REGIMENT N. C. TROOPS, FROM ENTRANCE INTO SERVICE TO OCTOBER 1st, 1863.

In writing this short History, it is not intended to go into an extended notice of the prominent part this fine regiment has borne, in the most glorious, and the most bloody campaign of the war. The pen of the future historian must do it that justice, which for lack of time, space and capacity, I am unable to perform.

The 28th Regiment, N. C. Troops, organized at "Camp Fisher," near High Point, N. C., on the 21st Sept. 1861, for twelve months. Lt. Col. James H. Lane on the 1st November, was elected Colonel; Capt. Thomas L. Lowe, Lt. Colonel and Capt. Richard E. Reeves, Major.

The Regiment numbered about 900 men at the time of its organization.

On the 30th Sept. the regiment left its first camp, and under command of Lt. Col. Lowe was transported to Wilmington N. C., at which city it arrived on the 1st October, went into camp near the city on the Goldsboro' Railroad, and was incorporated into Brig. Gen. Joseph R. Anderson's command. Col. Lane arrived on the 1st of October and took command of the Regiment. Here the men built handsome barracks, and here they underwent the drill and discipline that was necessary to prepare them for a more active service. Here the regiment did post duty and guarded the railroad bridges to the Virginia line.—At this camp, seven companies of the ten, reorganized for "three years or the war, in Feb. 1862. Newbern was attacked, and the 28th Regiment was ordered to that point. Lt. Col. Lowe, in command, embarked his men on the train the 13th March, '62, and reached Newbern the 14th, only in time to assist in covering the rear of our discomfited troops. He, with Gen. Branch's Brigade then fell back to Kinston N. C. Whilst in this vicinity, the 28th Regiment became a part of Gen. Branch's Brigade.

On the 12th April, 1862, the regiment reorganized for the war, and, having received many recruits, it was about 1250 strong. Col. Lane and Lt. Col. Lowe were re-elected to their former positions by acclamation, and Capt. Sam D. Lowe of Co. C, was elected Major.

Branch's Brigade was ordered to Virginia. The 28th Regiment took the cars at Kinston on the 2d May, with 1199 men for duty, arrived at Rapidan Station, Va., the 6th, where it did picket duty. The Regiment then returned to Gordonsville, the 15th, and marched through Madison C. H., several miles above that place, on the Robinson river, as was the report, to join Gen. Ewell, then at New Market in the Valley. An order recalled the Brigade to Hanover C. H., where the 28th Regiment fought its first battle on the 27th May, 1862, with heavy loss. The Regiment here was cut off from the Brigade and was engaged with Gens. Martindale's and Butterfield's Brigades for over four hours, inflicting greater loss than it did receive, executing one of the most difficult retreats of the war. Here began a series of engagements in which this command bore an active part. After a short respite, it opened the battles in front of Richmond, it being the first Brigade to cross the Chickahominy on the 26th June, on which day it fought at Mechanicsville, on the 28th at Cold Harbor, on the 30th at Frazier's Farm, and at Malvern Hill, on the 1st July, 1862.

After these exhausting battles, the troops were allowed a short time to rest; the 28th, with the other regiments of the Brigade, going into camp below Richmond, till the 29th July, when it took up the line of march, which ended in the Cedar Run battle—the Regiment bearing a conspicuous part in the action, 9th August. On the 20th August the Brigade, now in the command of the immortal Jackson, whom it followed the remainder of the hero's life, began the famous march to Pope's rear, encountering heavy shelling at Warrenton Springs the 24th August, and meeting the enemy at Manassas Junction, on the 27th August, had a short fight at that place; on the 28th, 29th and 30th at "Manassas Plains," and at "Ox Hill" on the 1st September—the 28th Regiment fought in all these battles, led in each of them by Col. Lane, whose cool courage on all occasions is proverbial with the Brigade.

After the battle of Ox Hill, the troops moved towards the Potomac. The 28th Regiment crossed at Edward's Ferry on the Potomac River on the 5th September, marched to Frederick, Md., the 6th; then turned across the Blue Ridge, recrossed the Potomac at Williamsport on the 11th Sept., and formed in the line of battle investing Harper's Ferry on the 13th—participated in the capture of the place on the 15th Sept., crossed into Maryland a second time at Shepherdstown on the 17th, and took an active part in the battle of Sharpsburg the same day. Maj. Montgomery was in command here, Col. Lane was in command of the Brigade after the fall of Gen. Branch. As our army fell back, the 28th regiment crossed the Potomac on the 19th Sept. at Shepardstown, forming a part of the rear guard of the entire army of Northern Virginia, and was in the gallant charge on the 20th which drove the enemy's troops which had followed our army to the South bank, back into the Potomac. Branch's Brigade (at and after the battle of Sharpsburg, commanded by Col. Lane,) was quiet in camp near Bunker Hill Virginia, after the Maryland campaign, its numbers very much reduced, the 28th regiment numbering 150 men until the 15th October, when the command was ordered to move up to Heagersville and destroy the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which was most effectually done, after which the Brigade returned to Bunker Hill the 22nd October. Various moves were made near Charlestown and Snicker's Gap and Camp Lee, near Winchester, and on the 22nd Nov. 1862, the Brigade commanded by Gen. Lane (Col Lane had been promoted to Brig. General) commenced the long march to Fredericksburg, and arrived in time to meet Burnside at that town. In the great battle of the 13th Dec. 1862, the 28th regiment fought nobly and suffered severely. The army immediately went into winter quarters after this victory, Gen. Lane's Brigade at Camp Gregg 10 miles below Fredericksburg on the Rappahannock.

The winter passed. The 29th April, 1863, found the Brigade marching to Chancellorsville, to a victory which the 28th Regiment contributed largely to win, on the 3d May, losing more heavily than ever in any battle before in killed and wounded. This done, it was marched back to "Camp Gregg," and there remained till the 5th June, 1863. Then the Regiment left the old camp for a destination which proved to be Gettysburg, Pa. Crossing the Potomac for the 5th time, at Shepardstown the 25th June, reached Gettysburg the 1st July and was precipitated upon the heigts which rendered the Yankee General's position impregnable, losing about two-thirds of the entire Regiment in killed and wounded. This fierce and desperate, but unfortunate charge, was on the memorable (to North Carolinians) 3d July 1863. In the retreat, the Regiment was engaged in several skirmishes at Hagerstown and Falling Waters, at which point it was the last organized body of troops to cross the Potomac into Virginia, on the 14th July. Without any occurrence of striking importance after the date of those above recorded, the regiment found itself encamped at "Liberty Mills," near Orange C. H., Va., on the 1st day of October, 1863, at which time this record ceases to correspond with the "Roll." The muster rolls of the Regiment footed up at that date an aggregate of about 800.

These notes, though supposed to be accurate, very imperfectly express the sufferings of the Regiment, and the immense value of the services it has endured in this stupendous war. Forced marches, short rations, often no rations for days together, marching over roads knee deep in mud, wading rivers to the armpits, lying in line of battle in snow, rain and hail—add to this the sudden death of best friends, brothers fallen by your side in the strife of deadly conflict—all for the boon of Liberty, and then a faint idea only is given of the hardships, privations, bereavements and services suffered and endured by this veteran Regiment.

Volunteer recruits have partially made up the heavy losses of the Regiment—a statement of which loss, in every battle, will be appended to the accompanying "Roll." About fifty conscripts have been enrolled in the Regiment.

Very respectfully submitted,
SAM D. LOWE,

DEATH OF A MINISTER.—We learn that Rev. C. Maynard, of the M. E. Conference, died at his residence, in Granville county, on Tuesday morning. His remains are to be brought to this city for interment and will be buried by the Masonic Fraternity of which Order deceased was a member, this afternoon.

HOW IS IT?—How is it that men will grumble at paying fifteen and twenty five cents per copy for a good paper, when they buy their grog at one dollar and 25 cents per drink, their cigars at fifty cents a piece, or five hundred dollars for a cloth coat, one hundred and twenty dollars for a pair of boots, or four dollars and 50 cents per pound for butter, seventy dollars for a coon hat, or thirty dollars for a "hickory" shirt.
